

Tilden and Richards Flash Through Second Round of National Championship Tennis Doubles

New Davis Cup Team Easily Defeats Shimizu and Hunter

Victory in Straight Sets 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 Over High Ranking Opponents Shows America Has Strong Combination to Defend Title

By Fred Hawthorne

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—The annual men's national championship doubles lawn tennis tournament began this afternoon on the turf courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill with a field of thirty-seven teams in the draw. While this number has been exceeded in previous tournaments the quality has rarely been of a higher standard. There are few "soft spots" to be found in any section of the field, and each day of play will be featured by some "starred" match.

No real upsets marked the progress of the opening day, the nearest approach to such a thing being the straight-set defeat of Phil Neer and James, of California, intercollegiate champions, by John Hennessey and Walter Westbrook, Western doubles champions, by a score of 6-3, 6-3, 6-6, in the second round, both teams having drawn byes in the opening brackets. The winners are the older, more experienced players and it was this that aided substantially in their victory.

One of the strongest teams was put out of the running at the start, but the result was fully expected, for it was William T. Tilden 2d and Vincent Richards, holders of the national title, who defeated Zeno Shimizu and Francis T. Hunter, and by the decisive score of 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, the whole match not requiring more than forty-five minutes.

In contrast to this was the keen struggle that S. Howard Voshell and Samuel Hardy had against R. C. Wertheim, of Australia, and Jose Alonso, of Spain, in the second round. The men were on the courts almost two hours, and in the end Voshell and Hardy had won by a score of 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, a foreign combination uniting up a surprisingly stiff battle against the smooth teamwork of the veteran and crafty team that opposed them.

The strength is about evenly divided in the tournament. Tilden and Richards, the Kinsey brothers, William M. Johnston and Wallace F. Johnson, Voshell and Hardy, and Willis Davis and Harry C. Johnson being located in the upper half of the bracket. We find R. Norris Williams 2d and Watson M. Washburn, of last year's Davis Cup team; Manuel Alonso and Count de Gomar, the Spanish Davis Cup pair; N. W. Viles, of Boston, and Jean Borotra, of France; Gerald Patterson and P. O'Hara Wood, the Australian team, and Hennessey and Westbrook.

Edwin Sheafe, president of the Longwood Cricket Club and chairman of the tournament committee, had the stage beautifully set for the opening day of play, and when the last match had been completed the field had been cut down to twenty-three serving pairs.

Eight Other Tournaments On
In connection with the tournament at Chestnut Hill, the Longwood Club, in its old grounds at Longwood, is conducting the national junior and boys' championships in both singles and doubles. As though these five events were not sufficient to tax Mr. Sheafe's ingenuity, he has also reserved "pep," there will be four other events, namely, the veterans' national doubles championship and the national father and son doubles event and the women's Longwood Invitation singles and doubles. All the latter events begin to-morrow on the Chestnut Hill courts.

When you consider that there are nine different tournaments to be run off within the space of five days, under one management, an idea of the magnitude of the task undertaken by Mr. Sheafe and his lieutenants in the face may be gained. The thought of rain interfering with this schedule is a nightmare, and it is probable that the chairman will spend the major part of his nights on his knees, offering up prayers for clear weather.

The courts at Chestnut Hill are firm and lightning fast at present, and some of the bare, red spots which marked them in previous years have been eradicated. George Wightman, a member of the committee, who has been charged with the duty of supervising the maintenance of the courts, is no more. Chief interest this afternoon centered in the first appearance of Tilden and Richards, only because they are playing through in the national title, but also because they are generally favored as the pair who will take the Australasians in the Davis Cup changing end matches at Forest Hills next month.

Several members of the Davis Cup committee were on hand when the champions and their opponents, Shimizu and Hunter, were introduced, and if they were impressed to the same degree that I was by the showing of the team then, they must have regarded them most favorably as the logical team to represent this country in the coming year. Shimizu and Hunter have won some notable matches this season, and against all but the first two or three teams in the last, they would have about an even chance. The score in the match this afternoon, however, was a fairly accurate gauge of the margin that separated the losers from the champions.

Cup Team Shows Speed
Tilden, refreshed by his lay-off of the last few weeks, was alive with energy and animal spirits and some of his shots were sensational and amazing. He was covering court like a streak of light, driving with furious speed off both forehand and backhand, handling his overhead splendidly, and his volleying was actually dazzling. Young Richards, partnered by so brilliant a player, would have been outclassed had he fallen to any considerable degree below Tilden's standard, but on the contrary, he vied with the national singles king at every stage, his low volleying being particularly noteworthy, while overhead he approached victory against his kind of opposition, Shimizu and Hunter could not make much headway, work as they would. They were out-exchanged and out-guessed in the fast exchanges and it was Hunter who more often made the errors at critical stages.

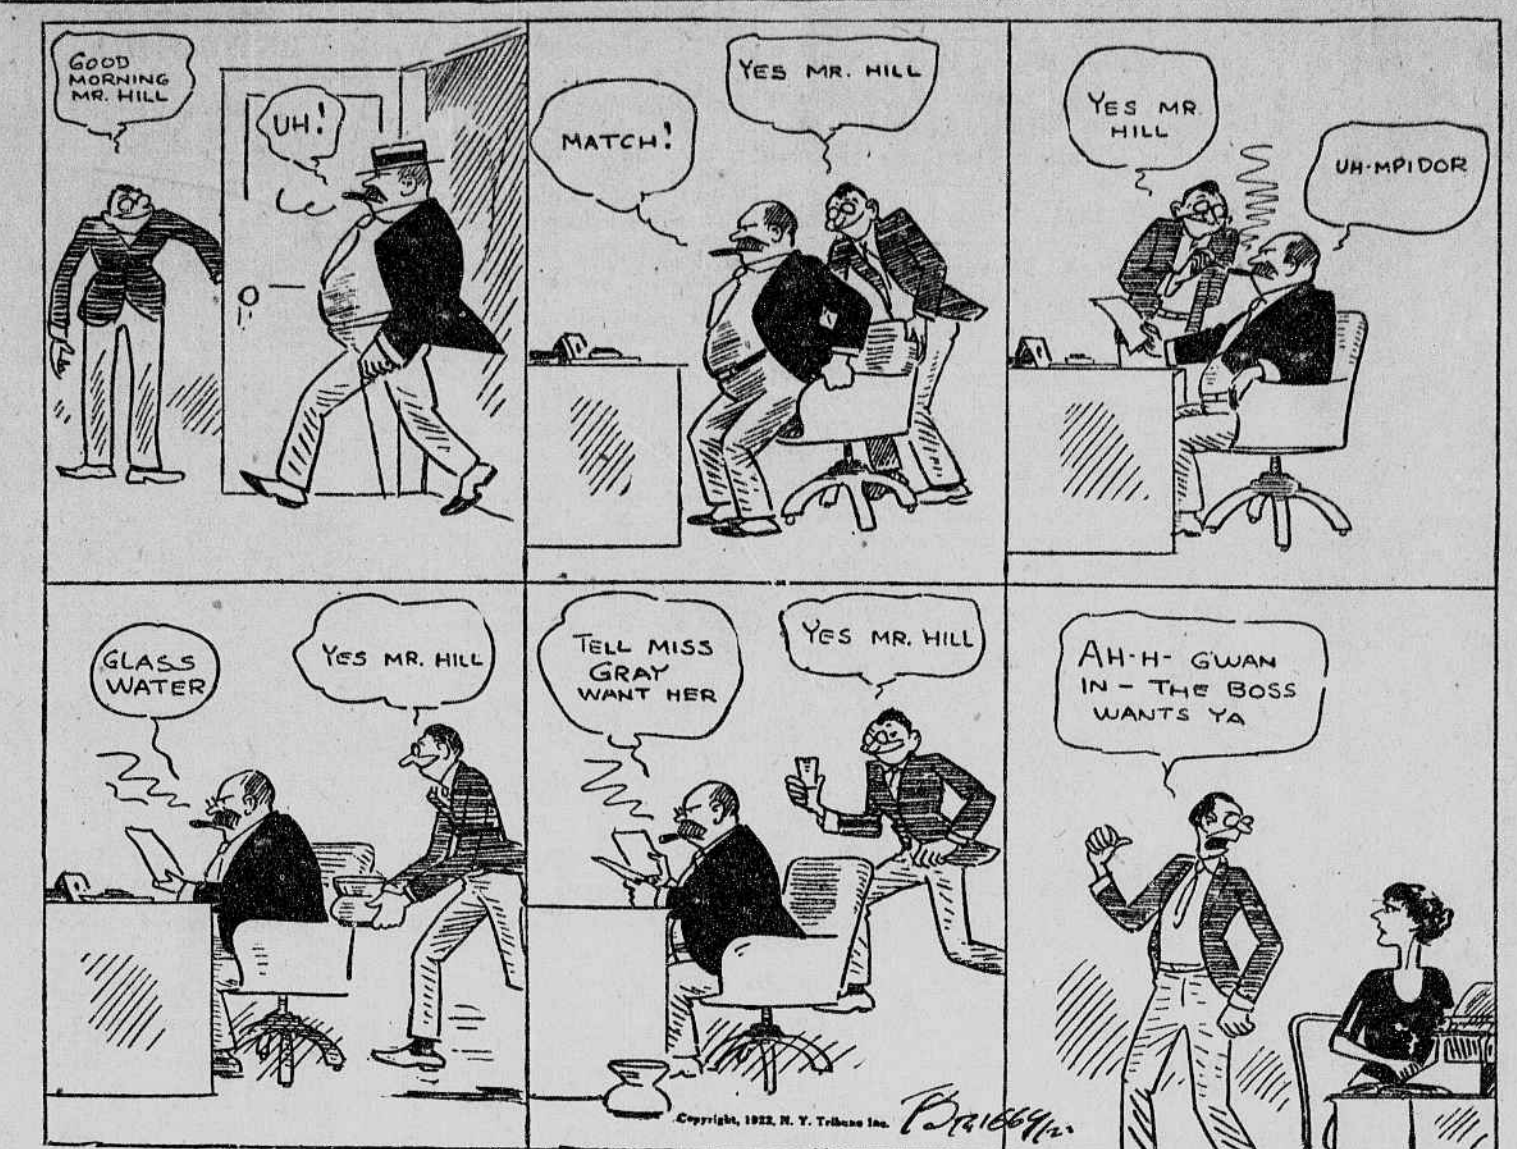

Johnston and Johnson, having drawn a bye to-day, did not get into action, but the Kinsey champions of the Pacific Coast and conquerors of Williams and Washburn at Newport last Saturday, looked extremely capable against Joe Armstrong and John McGehee, Northwestern titleholders, winning by a score of 6-1, 6-3, 6-0, and showing frictionless team work as they ran rapidly through the match.

Williams and Washburn were another pair to win decisively, eliminating Clifford J. Lockhorn and W. Crocker by a score of 6-3, 6-2, 6-0. In the first round, the old international pair were entirely too fast and too resourceful for their opponents, who were swamped under a perfect avalanche of shots from all directions.

Wins Junior Diving Title
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 21.—Clarence Pinkston, San Francisco, won the A. U. national senior high diving championship at Coronado yesterday, only ten points behind him was Haig Prieste, Los Angeles, present holder of the junior national high diving championship, and if used in this series can be used in St. Louis next Sunday with three days intervening. McQuillan is right in the line of the season.

These off days don't do the Giants' pitting corps any harm. There was no game to-day, but the team can be used Wednesday if McGraw chooses, for they will have had three days rest by then, and if used in this series can be used in St. Louis next Sunday with three days intervening. McQuillan is right in the line of the season.

"I Think We'll Win," Hums Jawn, Pleased With Giants Pep and Go

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—Manager McGraw told his players when they hit the trail for the present trip that if they won six games before returning East they would be in a good position to win the pennant. They have won four out of six so far, and between the Reds and the Cardinals ought to be able to take at least two more.

Skeeters Back in Form and Trounce The Bisons, 10 to 3

After losing three straight to Buffalo, the Skeeters returned to batting form yesterday at Jersey City and pounded Llewellyn from the box in the first inning in which they scored seven runs and won 10 to 3.

When Jeffries had administered the final polish to Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Sharkey he found the skyline cleaned of challenging talent. There was no distant shadow, even, falling along his right of way. So he tossed the crown into a corner and retired—until lured back six years later. Jeffries was only twenty-nine years old when he found all business suspended through lack of competition. Dempsey at the age of twenty-seven still has one formidable opponent left in Harry Wills, and by the time Dempsey is twenty-nine there should be at least one A-bysmal Brute, Troglodyte or What-not with enough stuff to call for a ballyhoo.

Dempsey's main trouble is finding an opponent who will provide a suitable work-out for the Wills affair. The champion has abstained from the practice of his profession for so long that he needs something better than Brennan to work on.

Keatley Wins Press Golf Tourney Honors

The eighth annual press championship, which is held under the auspices of the New York Newspaper Golf Club, and which was contested at the Inwood Country Club links, at Inwood, L. I., yesterday was won by William A. Keatley, of "The World" winner of the tournament last year. Keatley, who finished in a score of 85—80—165, Allan S. Poinsette, of the Associated Press, who also has two legs on the trophy, finished a stroke behind the thirty-six holes of play. Poinsette's score was 81—85—178. Other leading scores were: Frank Gould, "The Metropolitan Magazine," 84—89—173; Hiram Serine, "The Variety," 90—86—176; and Richard Walsh, "The Damon Runyon trophy for the lowest number of putts, was won by Serine, who totalled 58. The low net prize for the morning round was won by Poinsette, with an 81, his handicap being 6.

Western Open Tourney

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—More than three score golfers who will contest in the Western open championship at Oakland Hills, near here, beginning Wednesday, played practice rounds over the links today. It is expected that the number will be out for limbering up to-morrow, and when championship play begins, fully 250 are expected to take off.

Advance Echoes

What was that? I thought I heard Somebody yell, "Break up that play!" "Drive in there, now, and block that bird!" "Don't let that tackle get away!" Or was it but the August breeze Still blowing back old memories?

In case the next world series is fought out between New York and St. Louis, we trust that on account of some railroad strike the journey will not have to be taken in a taxi or a bus. This may be a good spot to resume bicycle riding again.

Giants Plan Enlarged Seating Capacity for the Polo Grounds

Club Files Papers for Construction of 3-Story Fire-proof Grandstand on 8th Avenue Speedway to Accommodate 25,000; Will Cost $500,000

World series plans apparently are already under way at the Polo Grounds, or at least will be in short order. The two essentials in connection with a diamond classic are, first to win the pennant, and, in the second, to have sufficient seating capacity to take care of all the spectators in case the games are to be played here. The Giants appear to look like prospective champions more and more each day, and this leads the National Exhibition Company, otherwise the New York Giants, to prepare for the emergency. The first move was made yesterday, when plans were filed for an enlarged stadium.

According to plans drawn by Charles A. Duke, architect, a three-story fire-proof grandstand will be erected on the Eighth Avenue Speedway, 167th and 168th streets. It will have a frontage of 467 feet, 10 inches, and a depth of 123 feet. The plans have been filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings and the estimated cost will be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Whether this means the complete destruction of the bleachers has not as yet been disclosed. The site named for the new grandstand at the present time is occupied by uncovered wooden bleachers, which seat about 15,000 when crowded, and this happens only on rare occasions, as New York fans are not what one might term bleacher patrons. There has been much talk of increased seating arrangements for the Polo Grounds ever since the announcement of a new home for the Yankees. The original rumor promised a bowl-shaped grandstand, the wooden bleachers completely enclosing the playing field and would seat close up to 100,000. It is hardly likely that this original intention has been abandoned. The new stand in place of the bleachers, the seat about 25,000, is said, which only would be an increase of 10,000 over the present bleachers' capacity.

A seating capacity of at least 50,000 is assured for the world's series irrespective of the probable bleacher arrangements, and the playing field, when the new stands are completed, will be enclosed almost three-quarters.

Hamilton Pitches In Fine Form and Braves Lose, 5 to 1

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—Boston failed to get a man to third base until the ninth inning to-day, and Pittsburgh won, 5 to 1, through Hamilton's brilliant pitching. The Braves pitched listlessly after the Pirates drove in three runs in the first. Powell attempted to make a shoestring catch of line by Traynor in the eighth and the ball went to the flag pole for a homer. Boston's run was the result of three hits.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Philadelphia made it three out of four from St. Louis to-day by winning the final game of the series 7 to 6; while the Yanks, being idle, gained a half game on the Browns.

A pair of home runs in the first inning by Welch and Perkins of Kolp and Davis helped the locals in scoring five runs. Williams had two hits, running his string of hitting in consecutive games to 25.

Water Polo Teams To Play in Title

The crack water polo teams of the New York Athletic Club, Central Swimming Club, Boys' Club and New York Swimming Association will try for honors in the Metropolitan Association junior water polo championship in Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The game between the Mercury Football Club and Brooklyn club should produce the real thrill.

Another feature event will be a breast stroke race in which Frances Taylor, former national junior breast stroke champion; Billie Taylor, Alameda Athletic Club, and Brooklyn's legghy Mountain Association champion, and Miss A. Nevel, all of Pittsburgh, will meet the swimmers in the Metropolitan district. Alma Mann, formerly of Panama; Louise Davidson, of People's Palace; and Florence Briscoe, all have been invited to swim against the Pittsburgh mermaids.

The list of events follows: Metropolitan Association junior 500-yard championship and 73-yard Mermaid Club race for women; Metropolitan Association junior medley championship, high dive handicap and water polo championship.

Amateurs to Box at Crescent A. C. To-night

The Crescent Athletic Club will hold its semi-monthly amateur boxing tournament at the Bay Ridge clubhouse, Eighty-fifth Street and Shore Road, Brooklyn, to-night.

The feature class should be the flyweight in which Sam Biefeld, Clark House A. C.; Jack Snyder, unattached, and Joe Malone, Glencoe A. C., are the favorites. Malone already has defeated the above mentioned boys, but Biefeld was not satisfied with his decision and claims that he will bear out his argument by defeating Malone to-night.
